New Leaders In the Field

The coming primary contest for control of the Republican organization is going to be a hot race from the word "GO!"

The contest promises to be more than interesting in that state and congressional leaders have become disgusted with the factional disturbance and influence has been lent towards an independent movement to wipe out both factions.

The actions of the Gowdy-Marshall committee in the national campaign in November 1920 convinced Republican leaders that there must be a re-organization, as a large part of that committee was openly supporting candidates on the Democratic ticket.

Rather than see such a condition flourish it was necessary to organize what was called the Harding Club in Xenia which worked independent of the Gowdy-Marshall committee that did not even distribute literature sent out by state and national headquarters.

Some of the most prominent men in the county took part in that organization. Men not especially aligned with either faction. George Little, was chosen head of the club and under his direction the campaign was conducted.

Following the election it was suggested that the Harding Club be continued but Mr. Little opposed it for the reason that campaign work for the party should be done through the committee provided for. Where there is failure then an outside committee is necessary as was the case mentioned above.

Mr. Little was then urged to take a hand in reorganizing the committee and make an effort to eliminate both factions for the good of the party and that the committee be kept out of local fights for county offices and used only for party success in state and national campaigns. Since that time plans have been quietly forming with the sanction of both state and national leaders.

To assist in securing approved candidates, Dr. H. C. Messenger and F. H. Creswell looked after the filing of the petitions for the candidates. Mr. Little is now in California where he went a few days ago to accompany his family home, expecting to return by the first of the month when he will assume active charge of the campaign.

The entrance of Mr. Little in the campaign was as much of a surprise to one faction as the other. Both of the factions have at times had control of the committee and it was used in most instances for petty politics, particularly the present organization.

The Gowdy-Marshall leaders are hurling broadsides at Mr. Little and resorting to floating all sorts of reports, the truth of which will be proven before the campaign is half over.

The so-called reform leaders, as they have styled themselves in the past, have been driven by frenzy for the loss of their old time lieutenant, ex-mayor Thomas Donnelly, who refused to be their candidate and is lending support to the new organization.

Gowdy and Marshall made no less than two or three trips to Yellow Springs to influence Donnelly to enter as their candidate but the ex-mayor was aware of the influence back of the proposed organization and did not care to run cross current with the powers higher up. He was also aware that Marshall's endorsement or his personal connection with a committee meant nothing after what took place in the campaign two years ago.

Mr. Little is a candidate for central committee in his, the Second Ward in Xenia, which has been represented by Marshall who did not seek re-election but found another candidate. He claims that every candidate on his slate is pledged to him in the organization of the committee. The primary fight will not be much of a personal contest between the individuals as candidates but who they represent. The following are the Little candidates in the various precincts:

New Jasper township, Oscar S. Hargrave.
Bellbrook, G. D. Morris.

RYAN FARM PROPOSITION LOADED AT BOTH ENDS

The County Commissioners are in a position where a decision is going to cause much feeling regardless of the outcome.

The commissioners heard arguments for and against the acceptance of the Ryan Riverview farm last Thursday. The will provides that if the state refuses to accept the farm it must then be offered the county. The stipulation is that no religious services ever be held on it.

This is the feature that has stirred up the church people and the county being noted for its religious inclinations, expressions are free and to the point.

Opposition also rolls up from members of the Farm Bureau who are opposed to accepting the farm in that the county is already burdened with taxes and no experiments could be conducted under the will or a fish hatchery established without great cost to the county. The general opinion is that the state should take over the property, even though former Governor Cox and Governor Davis have both turned it down.

At the meeting Thursday the Ministerial Alliance took a decided stand against the county accepting the farm under the will. Rev. Middleton, Rev. Dodds and Rev. Prouditt, with others opposed it. Church people say there is no question as to the meaning of the will or Bryan's intentions after he examined the investigated the marriage vows in some twenty states that he might find one that did not require the recognition of the Diet.

Judge R. L. Gowdy spoke in favor of the acceptance of the farm and explained that the will did not mean what it said but meant what it did not say and how the will could be sidestepped.

Prosecutor Kenneth Williamson holds to the view that the state cannot get around accepting the farm unless the legislature turns it down as the governor has no power to refuse to accept it.

We notice where various religious organizations in the state are taking up the question. The Men's Bible Class of the Indianapolis M. E. church, Columbus, commends Gov. Davis for rejecting the bequest.

George Little has been elected vice president and manager of the Hoover & Allison Company, Xenia, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John Steel. Mr. Little has been on the board of directors and closely connected with the affairs of the company for a number of years. He will enter upon his duties about the first of the month. The company is one of the largest manufacturers of tires and rope in the country and has several hundred holders of stock in this county. Mr. J. D. Steel, president of the company leaves with his family for an extended tour of Europe in a few weeks.

FARM AND FIELD NOTES

William Frame left Friday night for Kansas City, where he expected to purchase cattle.

The members of the Clark County Farm Bureau held a special meeting Friday afternoon in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce Springfield at which time a discussion of the proposed amendment to the state constitution for the reclassification of property for taxation was taken up. The vote was strongly against the proposed change.

We are in receipt of an interesting letter from Mrs. A. L. King of Oshkosh, Wisconsin, who may will remember as Miss Orel Pierce, Mr. King, her husband is secretary and Treasurer of the Winnebago County Farm Bureau and they keep in touch with happenings of this vicinity thru the Herald River Valley was visited with a great storm. Much damage to property and live stock, railroads and the highways. Among a few clippings of the Winnebago County Farm Bureau News we find that blue sky salesmen have worked on people in that section like they have in Ohio and other states and the Bureau has formed a sanctuary committee to investigate and keep its members posted.

The Bureau has sold between thirty and forty carloads of certified seed potatoes in Ohio for spring planting. This is greater than last year's sales, by five times.

BIG FIGHTER WITH THREE PASSENGERS RISE 24,206 FEET

McCook field aviators broke two aviation records Monday afternoon when a plane, carrying three passengers, reached an altitude of 24,206 feet. A parachute jump was made from that altitude.

The highest point was reached when the air craft was over Springfield at which time the three men took a lunch. Those in the plane were Serg. Roy Langham, Lieut. Wade and Capt. A. W. Stevens, chief of the photographic section.

Capt. Stevens made the jump when over Springfield yet those in this section that were watching the craft took it to be over a point north of town. His parachute was carried by a high wind twenty miles southward and he landed at Jamestown. It took the air craft 2 hours and 5 minutes to reach the top and only thirty minutes to reach the earth. The jump is said to be the most daring thing ever attempted in the air service.

Wilberforce Commencement was held yesterday.

Mrs. Faulkner County Treasurer

At a meeting of the County Commissioners Thursday morning Mrs. A. E. Faulkner was named as county treasurer to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John H. May.

The commissioners were appealed to by many of the friends of the candidates to appoint one of the other but in view of the fact that she is on the board of directors and the candidates and the action was unanimous. Had this plan been followed, it is reported that Frank A. Jackson would have been the lucky one, not that he was a candidate, but that he was only defeated by 14 votes in the primary two years ago.

Mrs. Faulkner is the wife of A. E. Faulkner, now cashier of the Commercial Savings Bank and former county auditor. During her husband's terms of office Mrs. Faulkner was an assistant in the office and is perfectly familiar with bookkeeping and the operation of the office. She will be the first woman office holder in the county and her appointment will be satisfactory in every respect as much feeling would have developed had the commissioners appointed a candidate.

Mrs. Faulkner assumed the duties of the office Thursday and will announce her deputy later. We understand Elbert Babb, present deputy did not desire the place again. Mrs. Faulkner has a year and nine months to serve.

SPRING VALLEY MINISTER LEAVES WIFE AND CHILDREN

Rev. Walter W. Culp, pastor of the M. E. church, Spring Valley, is said to have left his wife and nine children and departed with Miss Esther Hughes, 18, Greenville, a boarder in the Culp home. The minister and the girl left in his touring car about two o'clock Wednesday morning. According to Mrs. Culp her husband threatened her if she told anyone before they left. He left a note saying that "you can have the children" The wife says he told her it "was all right" for him to run away with the young girl because he loved her and that he did not permit the fact that he was a minister of the gospel to enter into the question. Miss Culp was brought to Spring Valley from Greenville as an instructor in piano and the class was organized by the minister.

SHORTAGE OF SUTTON STILL ON THE INCREASE

Regardless of the fact that J. E. Sutton, former county treasurer, paid back to the county more than $2,500 following the examination of his books by a state examiner covering only three years of his term of office, additional shortage due to tax collections turn up every few days. To date about $200 additional has been found that is due to county.

Although the last grand jury rejected the case here an opportunity to have the same jury try its hand again on the jury was a blood relative and several friends of the family. The Farm Bureau asked for an investigation and it received it.

Rev. McQuilken Fine Orator

The class orator for the College Commencement was delivered last Friday morning by Rev. Dr. James McQuilken. McQuilken, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church in Carnegie, Pa. Dr. McQuilken is an eloquent speaker and used as his subject: "The Challenge of Ideal Americanism." Americanism was explained and held up to the graduates as an ideal by the speaker, who appealed for the seniors to go forth from the college to engage in unselfish service which would prove them heroic in the world. Ideal Americanism is to be found in the traditions and men connected with the founding of our earliest educational and national institutions. The ideals exemplified in the lives of Washington, Henry and Webster are those of true ideal Americanism.

"Our institutions with the inescapable principles of these men are examples of the ideals of these great patriots. According to tradition this is a Christian nation and its fundamental call is that of Christian Americanism. It is a challenge to young Americans to devote their lives to the ideals of America."

"The responsibility of every college-trained man is to further the welfare of the nation. The call of America is not of the wild and un-civilized as in years gone by it is the adding up of institutions which will further our ideals."

"The opportunity of the graduates to choose a career and occupation which will meet the greatest need of their fellow men and fulfill the will and program of God. The call is to occupations that offer opportunities for unselfish service," declared the speaker.

Besides the degrees that were conferred upon the graduates, the degree of Master of Arts was conferred on Paul Warren Duncan, A. B. Huston, Ky.

College opens for the fall term on September 19 and the opening address will be delivered by Rev. Clifford of the Xenia Presbyterian church.

CANNOT DO BETTER WITH MONEY

You don't want life insurance, because you "can do better with your money." Your business pays you even now, you say, fifteen per cent on your capital.

Does it so? But money itself cannot earn fifteen per cent. Safely invested—not on hazardous speculation—it will return on the average not to exceed five per cent. The extra ten per cent is the result of your labor, your energy and resourcefulness, your superior executive ability. Death will end all that. The extra ten per cent represents the money value of your life to your family and your estate. Death would destroy that value, but life insurance will indemnify against the financial loss, just as fire insurance lessens the loss when property burns.

PRICES CREEPING UP

Not only farmers but manufacturers of various lines of goods are getting the advantage of better prices. The demand for goods of all kinds, particularly building material has increased in a manner that has caused all kinds of business to reach a stage that is more like normal.

This week cattle reached $8.75 in Chicago. This means much to the stockholder and promises an encouraging future for the farmer's products in the future. When labor is at work the demand for food stuffs is much greater.

We also note that the wool market is firmer and prices will no doubt continue to rise. The laborer that has been out of employment will now be in position to get his much needed clothing for himself and his family.

We saw a notice sent out last week to clothing manufacturers by the American Woolen Company. All grades of wool have been advanced 27 cents on the yard. The merchant that orders clothing now must give his order with the understanding that it cannot be canceled or altered. As it takes about three and one quarter to three and one half yards of woolen goods to make a suit of clothes this means nearly $3.50 additional for the goods alone. The manufacturer who must purchase hundreds of thousands of yards of wool must of necessity have more money invested and this is added to the advance of the price of the cloth for most of these firms must borrow from the banks and the interest charged is added to the cost of the garment.

From this it would indicate that the man that needs a suit of clothes could make money for himself to say it in now and not wait until the higher priced goods are offered. The merchant must sell on the basis of his cost. With the laborer at work and the farmer getting better prices we face a better business era by fall than we have had for many months. The wise buyer in most any line had better provide for his needs on the present market, rather than wait.

HOMBY PHILOSOPHY

Every now and then we hark back to the old copy book and remember the lines on the top. Who forgets "Example is Better Than Precept" which means "Teach by doing" things, not by saying things? Here's a whole bunch of us acting as wise owls teaching the young what to do, telling 'em all sorts of things they don't believe because they see we're not carrying 'em out ourselves. The reason we don't carry 'em out is because we've grown old and that's the greatest crime of all. Every man seems to wish he could start out in life with the knowledge and experience of middle age. Why not? We can't get the experience of age in child life but we can drag back the simplicity and truth of child life in the middle age. Mohamet can always go to the mountain.

Beginning Downfall.

The darkest hour in the life of a young man is when he sits down to study how to get money without honestly earning it.—Horace Greeley.

LESSON FOR JUNE 18

THE DOWNFALL OF JUDAH

LESSON TEXT—II Kings 24:1-21.
GOLDEN TEXT—Do not deceive: God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.—Gal. 6:7.
REQUIREMENT—REHEARSE—Isaiah 37:36, 37; II Chron. 32:22-23; Luke 19:44.
PRIMARY TOPIC—God Punishing Disobedient People.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Capture of Jerusalem.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Nation That Disobeyed God.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Results of National Disobedience to God.

Zedekiah was made king of Judah by the king of Babylon (24:17), but in spite of this kindness and the word of the Lord spoken to him by Jeremiah (Jer. 28:17, 18; cf. Jer. 52:3), he rebelled against the king of Babylon. He relied upon the help of Egypt, but all that Egypt could do was to cause temporary interruption of the siege of Jerusalem.

1. The Siege of Jerusalem (vv. 1-3).
1. Time of (vv. 1, 2). It began on the tenth day of the tenth month of the ninth year of Zedekiah's reign and lasted about eighteen months. The tenth month according to the Jewish calendar corresponds to our December-January, as their calendar year began about the middle of March. The reason the exact time is given is that this was to be an event of great importance to the Jews in their exile.

2. The Method (v. 3). Nebuchadnezzar came in person with a large army and encamped against Jerusalem and built forts against it round about. It is thought that siege walls were built around the city, shutting it in. On the tops of these walls were built from which missiles of destruction could be hurled by their engines of war against the city. With the city shut in its fall was only a question of time.

3. The Famine (v. 3). It is estimated that about one-third of the people of Jerusalem died of starvation.

4. Zedekiah's Flight and Fate (vv. 4-7).
1. "The City was Broken Up" (v. 4). The Chaldeans had succeeded in making an opening in the wall so large that they could make their way into the city in spite of all that the Hebrews could do. Resistance was carried on to the bitter end.

2. Zedekiah's Flight (v. 4). The king with his men of war fled by night toward the plain. His object, no doubt, was to cross the Jordan at Jericho and hide in the mountains east of Jordan.

3. Zedekiah's Fate (vv. 5-7). (1) He was overtaken in the plains of Jericho (v. 5). When his flight was discovered the Chaldean army pursued and captured him. (2) He was brought to the king of Babylon at Riblah (v. 6). Riblah was a town north of Damascus. It was the king's headquarters from which he directed his armies against Tyre and Jerusalem. Before Nebuchadnezzar, Zedekiah was tied as a criminal. (3) His fate (v. 7). His sons were slain in his sight; his eyes were put out; he was bound with fetters of brass; and they carried him to Babylon where he remained prisoner until the day of his death (Jer. 52:11).

4. Jerusalem Destroyed (vv. 8-10). The dismantling of the city was delayed a month, perhaps awaiting instructions from Nebuchadnezzar, who was at Riblah.

1. They Burnt the House of the Lord (v. 9). This was the sacred temple built by Solomon with additions and modifications. Before burning it they plundered it of all its sacred contents.

2. Burnt the King's House (v. 9). This was doubtless the palace built by Solomon.

3. Burnt All the Houses of Jerusalem (v. 9). The implication is that the common houses were left for the people (v. 12).

4. They Broke Down the Walls of Jerusalem. The aim was to render the wall useless as a means of defense.

IV. The Disposition of the People (vv. 11, 12).

1. Carried Them into Captivity (v. 11). The people who were left in the city and those who had deserted to the Babylonians were carried to Babylon; all such as would be of use in Babylon.

2. The Poorest of the Land Were Left (v. 12). The people who would not likely make any trouble were left as vine-dressers and husbandmen. Doubtless they were looking forward to colonization by foreign peoples. The object in leaving these people was that the country might be ready for their coming. Over these people Gedaliah was appointed as governor, with headquarters at Mizpah.

To the Thief.

Let him that stole, steal no more; but rather let him labor, working with his hands the thing which is good, that he may have to give to him that needeth.—Ephesians 4:28.

The Greatness of God's Mercy. Remember me, O my God, and spare me according to the greatness of thy mercy.—Nehemiah 13:22.

No Peace for Them. There is no peace, saith the Lord, unto the wicked.—Isaiah 48:22.

HAS WEALTH OF FRIENDS

State Senator Roland Davis Is a Man of the People.

WELDED IN HIGH ESTEEM AT HOME

Receives Tokens From Constituents in Recognition of Services He Rendered the State—Is One of the Leading Candidates For the Republican Nomination For Lieutenant Governor.

State Senator Roland G. Davis of Hamilton, one of the leading candidates for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor of Ohio, bears a unique distinction and honor that probably does not belong to any other member of the Ohio general assembly, according to George F. Shoenen, president of the Dime Savings Bank of that city. Here is the story as told by him:

"When Davis returned home following the state adjournment of the Ohio general assembly, July 1, 1921, he did so with misgivings as to just what his reception might be. His fears, however, were soon put at rest. He was made the recipient of two handsome and very useful presents as tokens of the esteem in which he was held by his constituents, men and women, and in appreciation of the services rendered the state. One of these presents, a fine gold watch, was from male voters, and the other, a walking stick, from women voters. That sentiment was engraved on the case of the watch, and the same spirit accompanied the presentation of the cane, reinforced and emphasized by woman's sweetest smile when she is doing some act of loving kindness. Davis, I notice, is wearing the watch and carrying the cane in his travels over the state as evidencing the good opinion of his neighbors and friends."

Mr. Davis is of Welsh parentage. His success in life has been due to hard knocks. He is a printer by trade. He was hard hit by the 1913 flood, losing everything he had in the world, including a printing plant, which had grown in value from a few hundred dollars in 1903 to one of the leading printing plants of his city in 1913, when it was swept away and rendered useless.

Never Discouraged.

Discouraged, of course, he was never discouraged, and buckled on the armor to begin the fight anew. That was only a few years ago, and he is making progress. Success for him, according to the belief of his friends, in larger measure lies just ahead. Poor in this world's goods, he appears to be a millionaire in his wealth of friends, which was the contrast pictured and tribute paid the late James G. Blaine by Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll in his speech nominating the Plumed Knight for the presidency at Cincinnati in 1876.

He was elected to the state senate from the Second-Fourth district, embracing the counties of Brown, Butler, Clermont and Warren. He developed running qualities that attracted attention to him all over the state, leading the state ticket by 6,643. Harding in the great tidal wave that swept the state and country on national issues, led Davis by only 42 votes. Davis is the second Republican in years to be elected to the state senate from that strong Democratic district, and his candidacy for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor is causing the Democrats of that section of the state no little concern, because of Davis' personal popularity, which lies in the fact largely that he is a man of the people, and in full sympathy with the masses.

The Dark Ages.

The dark ages was a period of about six hundred years in European history, commencing with the fall of the western Roman empire (476 A. D.) and continuing until the close of the eleventh century (1100 A. D.). The dark ages comprised the first two-thirds of the middle ages and were characterized by extreme intellectual apathy and gross religious superstition. The away of the church was universal, and learning was at its lowest ebb.—Kansas City Star.

Where is the Ocean Deepest?
A most peculiar fact about the oceans of the world is that the largest depressions are to be found near the coast lines. The three largest of these are all in the Pacific, two of them being near island coast lines. The Swire deep, just off the Philippines, measures no less than 33,000 feet from the surface of the ocean to the bottom. This is just 3,000 feet deeper than Mt. Everest, in Asia, is high. The Aldridge deep, in the South Pacific, ranks next to this, being nearly 31,000 feet deep. The third is the Tuscara deep, near Japan, which soundings indicate to be 27,000 feet in depth. This would then make the bottom of the Tuscara deep more than two and three-eighths miles below the average level of the bottom of the ocean.—Popular Science Monthly.

Goat Milk Condensory.
The only goat milk condensory in the world is located at Pescadero, San Mateo county, 45 miles south of San Francisco. Here the Wilmann goat milk laboratories maintain a herd of 6,000 milk goats, according to the California development board annual report. The milk goat is seemingly immune from tuberculosis and the demand for canned milk from physicians for use of tubercular patients and infants far exceeds the supply. Interest in this branch of dairying is increasing, indicated by growing demand for breeding stock and importation of outstanding animals. During the last two years the number of milk goats owned in the state has increased about 50 per cent, many of them purchased for family use.

Native Surgery.
Binghi, a native of Australia, was never much of a surgeon, according to a correspondent in the Sydney Bulletin, yet he liked mutilating himself or his wife. In the old tribal days operations of all kinds were practiced, from the simple one of breaking a tooth off to mending a broken limb. Officers were brutal and indescribable. The New South Wales North coast tribes always appointed a fisherman to each family. This worker was known by the absence of two joints of the little finger on her left hand. Strong spider-web was tied round the second joint and left on till the flesh mortified. When that had taken place the finger was held in the opening of an ante's nest till it was eaten away.

SEASONABLE STUFF

The season for vacation is upon us once again. The business, shot to pieces, has produced an extra strain. A fellow's got to get away to rest awhile, you know, so the most important question is, where he goes to go? With Europe shot to pieces, and her scenery gone to smash—besides, the rumors didn't leave an overplus of cash. There ain't the old inducement for to breast the ocean's foam, and it really ain't desirable to go so far from home. The question grows perplexing as they often will, ye know, the hour keeps drawing nigher, but—where are you going to go?

Well—there's the Rocky Mountains, fairy-ladders to the skies—or, the Northern Lakes if callin' from a perfect Paradise. You can rest in Eden's Garden on our whole Atlantic coast—or journey to the Sunny South, the land I love the most. Go where the Old Pacific cools the California Belle—or, drift around the Yallerstone, where heaven flirts with hell. Yosemite, the fairyland, or Florida, the queen or up among the Catalinas to place you never seen. You can take Arizona where the Canyon splits the earth—and none of 'em will cost ye more'n a tenth of what it's worth! Huh—talk about vacations—it drives me to dispare, when I think about the idios that's allers askin' "Where"

CAPITAL'S PRETTIEST CHILD

Many people who have visited the exhibit of photographs of Washington's beautiful children in the National museum declare this child to be the most beautiful of all. It is Margaret Mary, baby daughter of Mrs. W. T. Merry.

RIPEN GRAPEFRUIT IN COLD

Federal Agricultural Experts Find
New Way—Produces Better Product.

Washington.—Grapefruit appearing on the American breakfast table may in the future be that coaxed to ripeness while reposing in a frigid temperature of some refrigerating plant. Department of Agriculture experts announced after completion of a series of experiments begun in 1917 that citrus fruit will ripen off the tree, and like pears and apples, will develop a superior eating quality after a period of one to three months in cold storage. The fruit, however, must be suitably "cured" before being placed in cold storage.

The government experts found, it was said, that while the sugar content of the fruit remained about the same, the acid content decreased markedly during the storage and apparently the bitterness was broken down.

Our Example.

Our example is worth a thousand remonstrances.—Gibstone.

Fire Without Matches.

Fire without matches may be produced with a handful of dry grass and two pieces of wood, one called the tinderwood, and the other a piece of very hard wood or very soft wood that is called the drill or spindle. A handful of dry grass is placed on a solid rock or board, and a notch is cut in the tinderwood. The tinderwood is then placed on the dry grass and a spindle, is inserted in the notch in the tinderwood. The spindle is made to spin at a fast rate between the palms of the hands until a fire is produced. Then the dry grass is taken up in the hands and blown on to make a blaze. It is then dropped on the ground and dry twigs and other grass piled on. A much quicker method than using the palms of the hands is to have a bow with a leather thong stretched on it. The spindle is fixed with one turn around it and made to revolve very fast in the notch of the tinderwood.

Puzzling the Priest.

There are some good stories in "Records," Lord Fisher's volume of reminiscences. One of the best concerns a dinner party he gave at his house. "There was present a Roman Catholic archbishop. He was a great saint. Another of my guests was a famous conjurer. After dinner we sat down to play cards. But the new pack I had ready was found to be missing. 'Hullo!' I said. 'Where are the cards gone to?' The conjurer said: 'It doesn't matter; the archbishop will let us have the pack he always carries about in his pocket.' The holy man furtively put his hand in his pocket, thinking my conjurer friend was only joking—and, dash it! there they were. I never saw such a look in a man's face. He evidently thought Satan was crawling about somewhere."

Old Standards of Time.

Some of the Mohammedan tribes of India and of the Indo-Malayan peninsula, who are addicted to chewing the betel leaf, use that as an indication of the passing of time. The leaf, prepared with a dab of lime and a sprinkling of spices, takes about 20 minutes to chew to a pulp. And this is taken as a standard of the time by them. But one of the strangest methods of telling time is used sometimes by the Malays, who measure time by the drying of the wet hair on a man's head.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE SEASON

Did you ever try breaded pork chops? Order the chops cut thicker than usual, cut out the bone and skewer and press into shape. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Put in a frying pan and sprinkle the top with crumbs. Each with dried crumbs. Pour in boiling water to one-half the depth of the chops, cover closely and bake in a slow oven one and one-half hours. Remove cover, sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs and bake until the crumbs are browned and garnish with celery tips. Serve with:

Tomato Celery Sauce.—Chop one onion, one green pepper and a large bunch of celery. Mix, add two and one-half cups of canned tomato broth which the sugar has been drained, one and one-half teaspoons of salt, two tablespoons of all-spice berries and two-thirds of a cup of vinegar. Let simmer one and one-half hours.

Oatmeal Soup.—Soak over night one cup of oatmeal in two quarts of water. Bring to a boil and place in a fireless cooker until time to prepare the soup. Cook one good-sized onion, butter until delicately browned; add four tablespoons of flour, two teaspoons of sugar, a dash of onion and pepper to season. Bring to a boil, add one cup of tomato pulp and serve hot. Strain before serving, or if for the children's luncheon, serve without straining.

Hot Chicken Salad.—Mix one pint of cooked chicken cut in cubes, one cup of cooked peas, one-half teaspoon of salt, one-fourth of a teaspoon of onion juice, one pint of one teaspoon of lemon juice; set aside in a cool place for at least an hour. Make a sauce, using one-fourth of a cup of butter, the same of flour, half a teaspoon of salt, a cupful each of cream and chicken broth. Add the seasoned ingredients and let stand over hot water until ready to serve.

Oracles.

As for myself I am turned contractor of hamper nothing for the oracles taking my pay in notes. I throw things out of the window and they snap them up at once. They sit in the cherry trees hard by and warble: "Hurry up! hurry up!" I never found out before just what they said. But if you will listen you will find that this is what they first say: A vulgarism, I admit, but native.—Lowell.

Coffee on Geraniums.

Four hot coffee into the saucers of your geranium pots every morning, having it boiling if possible. It will be sufficiently cool before it reaches the roots of your plants and you will be astonished at the wealth of blossoms your plants will put forth.

MAKES JOKE OF DEATH

Radio Operator on Doomed Ship
Grim Humorist to Last.

Talks as if He Were Going on Lark in Port Instead of to Bottom of Sea—Not a Soul Saved
From Vessel.

New York.—The grim humor of a wireless operator, who laughed at death and flashed bits of wit into the ether as his ship, the Norwegian steamer Grontoft, with thirty persons on board, wallowed and slowly sank during mid-Atlantic hurricane, was recorded on the radio log of the Danish steamer Estonia.

Each detail of the ship's plight, each call for aid, was supplemented by the jesting comment of the radio man, whose identity is still unknown.

He talked as if he were going on a lark in port instead of to the bottom of the sea. His last message, a disjointed one, was a series of witticisms with death as the butt of the joke.

The Estonia, itself hard hit in the 110-mile gale, made a valiant but unsuccessful effort to reach the Grontoft, which first sent out a call for aid when about 700 miles east of Cape Race.

The Estonia at that time was forty-eight miles west of the disabled Norwegian and steaming in an opposite direction. Capt. Hans Jorgenson, ordered his ship about and it steamed slowly toward the Grontoft.

Meanwhile Radio Operator Hansen engaged the operator of the Grontoft in conversation. The latter sent out first the following—a stereotyped irony of the seas.

"Good pity the poor sailors on a night like this." Then followed a series of "ha, ha."

"And say," he continued, "the old man thinks this calm will be over by nightfall. We sure need some breeze."

An hour later an urgent call for aid was sent out by the Grontoft, and its operator jested again.

"Well, the steward is making sandwiches for the lifeboats. Looks like we were going on a picnic."

Again a half hour later he sent: "The old wagon has a list like a run-down heel. This is no weather for a fellow to be out in without an umbrella."

"Hold on," returned the Estonia's wireless, "we'll be alongside soon." The Grontoft did not reply until forty minutes later. Then:

"We are sinking stern first. The boats are smashed. Can't hold out any longer."

"The skipper dictated that— He ought to know—where did I put my hat?—sorry we can't wait for you, pressing business elsewhere—"

Six hours after picking up the first call from the Grontoft, the Estonia reached its reported position, and though it cruised about for four hours, failed to find even a trace of wreckage.

Marriage in Greenland.

Courtship and marriage customs among the Greenlanders were in early times simple and unceremonious. We are told that when a lover would make up his mind as to the girl he wanted to marry, he would go to her house, seized her by the hair or wherever he could secure a good grip on her, and dragged her to his own domain, where she was expected to stay without any further marriage ceremony. If an affluent bridegroom he would perhaps soothe her lacerated feelings by presenting her with a new lamp.

Going Out of Business Sale

On June 15th I have agreed to sell my business and discontinue conducting a clothing and Furnishing store in Xenia, but in order to satisfy the new owners I have also agreed to greatly reduce the stock.

Therefore no effort will be spared, the cost of the goods will not be considered, the reduction on the merchandise will be so great that a large amount of high grade wearing apparel will quickly move. An opportunity such as this has not been given the residents of this community for years, to purchase real merchandise right in the heart of the season, at prices much below factory cost.

Each and every article in our store goes at reduction prices.

Sale Began Saturday, June 3rd, and Continues To Saturday, June 17th

On Monday, June 19th, the store closes for inventory and when completed will be turned over to New Ownership.

A charming wedding was solemnized at high noon Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. McLean when their daughter, Miss Fietta, became the bride of Mr. Joseph L. Mast Jr., of Dayton. The ceremony took place in the parlor under an arch of ferns and daisies. The double ring ceremony was performed by Dr. W. R. McChesney. Preceding the couple approaching the altar Miss Eleanor Johnson sang "I Love You Truly" and M. Johnson sang "Because I Love You". The little flower girl, Clara Louise Maute, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Maute of Springfield, threw flowers down the bridal path. The ring bearer was "Billy" Gilbert. Next came the bridesmaid Miss Josephine Hale of West Liberty and the best man, Mr. Leonard McLean, a brother of the bride. The bride was charming in a beautiful gown of white Georgette trimmed in white satin and carried a bouquet of beautiful white roses. The gift of the groom to the bride was a strand of beautiful pearl beads. Following the ceremony the twenty guests were seated in the dining room for the wedding dinner. The decorations were pink and white with streamers from the chandelier to the table while roses from the cake lead to the places on the table. The wedding cake was the gift of the bride's brothers, Leonard and Wilbur McLean, both bakers. The cards were little brides and grooms and the favors tiny pink and white baskets of candy. Following the dinner the happy couple repaired to the parlor where congratulations were in order. Electric fans everywhere. Fresh air continually pumped into the building. This air is washed of impurities—being forced through streams of cold water.

This is a comfortable store. The restrooms are delightful when one is fatigued with shopping. Regular meals or dainty lunches served in the Faery Queen Tea Room. If it were possible to make a store more homelike, we would apply the methods here.

Cheerful, pleasant, courteous clerks will give you the attention you are entitled to—merchandise you will appreciate. Everything as nearly perfect as is humanly possible.
